Fall Heightened By Festivities

Salve Opens Doors

by KAREN J. PERRY

Faces were filled with anticipation as prospective students, parents and tourists arrived for Salve's annual Open House on Sunday, October 15th.

As I observed the incoming students, filled with questions and excitement (and up to their necks in information booklets), my mind raced back to when I was in their shoes. Could it possibly have been four years ago? How time flies!

After registering at Ochre Court, the newcomers and their families gathered in the State Dining Room to await their turn taking a guided tour of the campus. While waiting, the college guests read leaflets about Ochre Court and often sighs of Ooo! and Aah! filled the air as they viewed the expert craftsmanship exhibited in the stately mansion.

In O'Hare Academic Center, Mercy Hall and Angelus Hall, faculty from each department were present to discuss specific areas of study with the incoming students. This gave the new students the opportunity to meet members of different departments and help them to decide (at least for the time being!) what field of study they would like to pursue.

A slide presentation, giving an overview of the campus, was shown for two sessions in the T.B. Room in O'Hare. These presentations attracted new and old students alike and was quite enjoyable.

For those interested in financial aid, two sessions were held in the T.B. Room. These sessions proved to be quite informative for all present.

For the thirsty tour guides and visitors, the Boathouse was open, accommodating the refreshment needs of all. This gave everyone the chance to mingle, meet new friends and become more at ease with the surroundings.

It was a pleasant day for the visitors, tourists, college personnel, students, and faculty alike. I enjoyed the opportunity to meet new people, talk about my department and studies, and brag about my college with its fine programs and breath-taking campus. All in all, it was an enriching day for everyone who participated. I only wish I were going to be here next year too.

Parents Charmed by College Welcome

by JOANNE MAZNICKI

This past weekend, Salve Regina held its 17th annual Parents' Weekend, during which students and their parents joined together to enjoy each other's company. The weekend got off to a start as the parents and students gathered in Ochre Court for a Coffee Hour. Immediately following was the Parents' Council Meeting. At the request of the Students, the parents were able to meet the faculty in the relaxed atmosphere of the Buffet Luncheon. The Luncheon was served in the Dining Room of Miley Hall.

The afternoon was a free time for the parents and students to do as they wished. For the majority it involved exploring the campus and sight-seeing in Scenic Newport. Many found this to be a good opportunity for roommates' parents to become acquainted.

The parents finally had the chance to meet the people so often mentioned.

Saturday evening began with a cocktail hour and a lovely dinner prepared at the Sheraton Islander Inn. For many students it was the first time they had cocktails with their parents. Following dinner, a dance was held in the Great Hall of Ochre Court. Music was provided by the Pat Zompa Orchestra. Contributing much to the weekend, a special mass was celebrated in the O'Hare Academic Center.

Parents' weekend came to a close on Sunday with brunch at the dining room of Miley Hall. All that participated found the weekend very rewarding as the parents' and students' worlds grew that much closer. "I've just realized how much I owe my parents," concluded a Miley resident.

Town Hall Trio Delights Community

by DIANE LOWE

The Town Hall Trio, sponsored by the Fine Arts Club, presented a concert of Beethoven, Grieg, Granados, Popper and Arensky on Tuesday, October 24, at 8 p.m. in Ochre Court.

Approximately one hundred enthusiastic students, faculty and other members of the Newport community attended the concert. Following the conclusion, there was a wine and cheese reception enabling the audience to meet and speak with the performers.

The chamber group is composed of Barbara Barstow, Shirley Adams and Catherine Carver Burton playing the violin, cello and piano respectively. Barbara Barstow is concert master of the Rhode Island Symphony and Shirley is first cellist. Catherine Carver Burton graduated from Juilliard and has been on the staff here.

Reaction to the group was extremely favorable. All were impressed with the sensitivity and skill with which the artists performed. Remarkd one student, "It was a delightful experience to sit in the natural setting of Ochre Court and listen to such soothing and excellently performed music."

Judy Fogg, a senior majoring in English, is chairperson of the Fine Arts Club. Having studied classical music for the past thirteen years, she has belonged to

A Farewell . . . .

by TIM LOGAN

As I am sure you are all well aware, Mr. James Cunningham recently resigned his position as Director of Maintenance. Although we are deeply saddened by Mr. Cunningham's sudden departure, I find that the most appropriate feeling at this time to be one of thankfulness. Mr. Cunningham embodied the small-school spirit of warmth, friendliness, and the personal touch in everything that he did. His dedication to the service of others endeared him to everyone he came in touch with, and there is no one whom Mr. Cunningham did not in some way help. We will certainly miss him here at Salve, and wish him all the best at his new position at Providence College. Our deepest thanks, Mr. C., as we concur with the Boathouse staff:

"HERE'S TO THOSE WHO WISH US WELL . . ."

With loving appreciation, we extend our heartfelt thanks for your years of dedication to the students at Salve Regina College.

In honor of your unselfish loyalty, we are naming our Bar, "The Cunningham Bar," with the sincere hope that the spirit and friendship that you have shown here will always be a living reality in our community.

Thanks for everything. You will always be "Dad" to us.

Prof. Delaney Leads Terrorism Seminar

by BARBARA KIVLEHAN

On October 13 and 14, 1978, Salve Regina, The Newport College, hosted a seminar entitled "Terrorism and National Security, The Challenge and its Management." This timely program drew a diversity of speakers whose theme was terrorism. Friday's speakers included Prof. Robert Delaney, "An Overview of World Terrorism Today;" Col. Joseph Barry, Operational Systems, Inc., "Physical Response to Terrorism;" and Prof. Lyman Kirkpatrick, Brown University, "The Terrorist Threat to Society." On Saturday, the speakers and their topics were Thomas F. Ruane, Jr., Corporate Security Worldwide, "Crisis Management and Terror;" and Richard J. Gallagher, Federal Bureau of Investigation (Retired), "What Can Be Done to Contain Terrorism?"

I was able to attend two of the lectures in this seminar and found them to be very informative and interesting. Prof. Delaney pointed out the three main classes of terrorists while making the audience aware that terror exists and can strike at any time. The lecture presented by Col. Barry dealt with the various ways and methods used to combat terrorism in corporations, homes, and prisons.

Prof. Delaney, an instructor in the graduate department here, was the coordinator of this terrorism seminar. In an interview Prof. Delaney mentioned that the main purpose of this seminar was "to make people aware of the possibility of terrorism coming in an organized way to the United States." When asked if this purpose was achieved, he commented, "Yes, I think so, for two reasons: (1) the enormous publicity that this seminar received (2) the number of inquiries about information on training people." Dr. Delaney mentioned that this seminar was covered by the National Associated Press all over the country and by local t.v. Channels 7, 6, 10, and 12.

Prof. Delaney commented on the seminar by saying, "Salve is to be complimented for hosting these conferences. The College leads campuses of America in studying terrorism from the viewpoint of academic insights." In passing, Prof. Delaney commented that Ohio University in Athens, Ohio, had contacted him and wanted to know what went into holdings of conference to set up a seminar there. Also, a number of people from different corporations liked the way people responded to the seminar and appreciated their effort.

In conclusion, I feel that this seminar was a success. Those of us who were present hope that a similar one will be held at Salve again in the future.

"Man On The Street"

by SUE COSTA

As I reported in the last issue of The Nautilus, this column is going to be a regular feature. The following question is the one that was asked for this month.

Any comments or replies are encouraged and should be addressed to the editor, Karen Perry.

Every three years, the owners

P. Archambault E. Vieira

of dorms Narragansett, Carey, and Seaview rent out those buildings to the America's Cup race crews. Thus, Salve's semester is cut short by three weeks. However, the same amount of work must be done in this short semester. Because of the confusion this situation causes, not to mention the headaches and jitters, we think something should be done to relieve students of some of the pressure. The next America's Cup Race is in the Fall of 1980. Would you rather have classes on Saturday, longer classes each period, (as was the case in the Fall of 1977), or would you rather see the semester continued after the Christmas break, as is done at Brown, Harvard, Penn State and Northeastern University?

Pam Archambault, a Junior commuter, expressed this opinion: "I would rather see the semester continued after the Christmas break in order to relieve the pressure of long classes or classes six days a week."

T. Reilly C. Galligo

Elena M. Vieira, RA of Ochre Lodge, favored the following: "I would rather have longer classes each period than continuing after Christmas break. The pressure is tremendous during the semester, but at least it is over with. You don't have to worry about exams or term papers over Christmas holidays."

Another commuter, Junior Thomas J. Reilly, III, made his comment short and sweet: "I would like to see the semester extended after the Christmas break."

Sophomore Cynthia Galligo, a resident at Salve, said the following: "If Christmas break was shorter, this would give people enough time to relax and take a break. When it is too long, as in the case of over a month, then students become bored with so much extra time on their hands. There is not really enough time to get a job; so an excess amount of time is spent foolishly. Therefore, I feel that if the break was made shorter, people would use the time they had more wisely."

Gail M. Reasler, library worker in the Acquisitions Department, commented: "If I were a student, I would prefer longer class periods because I would want my Christmas break free of any school work. As for Saturdays, some students might have a job and I personally would want to have my weekends free and clear."

G. Reasler

T. Roney

Graduate student Tess Roney, expressed an opinion that was quite different from the others that I received. She said "I don't think any of the three alternatives should be utilized. It shouldn't create too much of a strain for college level students to complete the same amount of work in a shorter semester. Life is full of such 'crises', and the sooner students learn to deal with them, the better."

the club since her freshman year. She remarked that this semester she finds "an increased interest on the part of students and faculty members." This is indicated by the growing club membership and concert attendance.

Some of the artists scheduled to appear in the future performed in the Newport Music Festival this past summer. Margaret Singer, a pianist, will appear on Tuesday, November 14 and once again in March. Also slated to appear are Bert Lucarelli, an oboist and Thomas Hyrnkiv.

Tickets will be available from the following people: Leo Bottari, Jr., Eddie Whelan (Conley Hall), Mrs. Moniz and Mrs. Sheehan in the Information Center, Room 123, O'Hare, Anita Jennings at Miley Desk, the Student Activities Office on the third floor of Ochre Court, and also in Bro. Gene Lappin's office, Room 112, O'Hare.

"We're having a lot of fun preparing," says Donna McCaffrey. You'll also have an enjoyable time; so don't miss The Lark.

by ALASTAIR BROWNE

At the beginning of this year, Salve has witnessed the appearance of a new major that has been in the planning for three years. The Philosophy major, designed by Dr. James Hersh, resulted from long range planning. Looking at Philosophy programs across the country, the department observed and decided what was needed for course offerings here at Salve. The department re-trenched traditional Western Philosophy, believing that we should have a balance between Western and Oriental Philosophy. Providing what other schools do not in this department, Salve also has courses in Mythology and Dream Symbolism.

Students often ask Dr. Hersh, "Can Philosophy get me a job?"

REMEMBER THE NEEDY

THANKSGIVING

New Program Introduced

"Yes," he answers, "if you want to prepare for law school, become a teacher, or just live better." Philosophy would help lawyers because it teaches them how to think, especially in terms of their upcoming cases for court. Another job that a degree in Philosophy could get somebody is a teaching position. The person could teach everything he has learned in the major to other students. Therefore, the two main areas in Philosophy are law and teaching.

Dr. Hersh told the story of a farmboy who came from a poor family and had to work all day for a living. When the opportunity came, he went to college and eventually received a Ph.D. in Philosophy. After receiving his degree, he went back to the farm. One day, he met the president of Yale University who asked him, "Why did you get a Ph.D. in Philosophy if all you were going to do was work on the farm all day?" The young man replied, "I have to think about something when I plow." Philosophy adds to the quality of living.

Dr. Hersh is unique in his philosophy of education. Seeing himself as an unorthodox teacher, he balances his courses between the joy of learning philosophy and the discipline that the subject involves. He likes to have a great deal of laughter and story-telling that will trick people into learning the course. As an educator, Dr. James Hersh has to compete against Rock and Roll and television. These two diversions can carry the mind away. But so can Dr. Hersh. Dr. Hersh reads a lot of material in preparation for his classes, and then comes in with one question. From this single question, students are personally involved, thinking about it and talking about it for the whole class period.

"To A Friend"

Oh friend! Yours is the strength
I often fail to muster when the cold winds begin to blow.
You stand tall and proud
under the strain,
though in your body
I can see scars not yet healed.
Your strong arms were always open to offer solace to a little girl's lonely heart . . .
I still envision your outstretched arms
silhouetted against the cold starry night.
Oh friend! Forgive me my injustices and hold me close once more — for again I fear the cold winds that have begun to blow.

Women's Active Role Urged

by LORI MANGIULLI

Miss Frances L. Carey, Associate Director of the Library Department, U. S. Naval War College, spoke at the College on October 16th. Her lecture, delivered to a management class, interested students, and faculty members, was "The Role of Women in Management."

"Women are first class citizens entitled to all the rights and privileges of first class citizenship" is Miss Carey's stand on women. She also stressed that she is not a strict feminist, but would like to see the term "women" deleted from job descriptions and other such documents and replaced with the word manager or executive.

Out of 441 jobs listed by the census bureau, women are only mentioned in 20 of them. The average female earns only 60% of what a man of equal organizational status earns. She also pointed out that we didn't see one significant female in either of the Pope's funerals.

In her experiences, Miss Carey has found that "being a woman is a distinct handicap." Trying to reach the next higher echelon in her career, she found that if a woman was in line for a traditionally male job or role, men would suddenly downgrade the job in discussion. She also points out that "Women have to do a better job than their male counterparts just to stay even."

There has been progress; however, it's very slow in coming. Since the Military Academies are now accepting females, women have earned the right to stay in the service despite inmarriage and pregnancy. Moreover, the 2% females-in-the-service law has been omitted. In 1973 ROTC opened up for women. Regardless of such progress, there are still very few female admirals or generals.

Miss Carey advises women to choose their career early and learn as much as possible so that they can be very proficient when trying to enter a male dominated field. It is also important for women to stick together and cooperate with one another.

In summation, Miss Carey states "Women have come a long way . . . in a system designed BY MEN FOR MEN."

Sports Scene

by KATHY POMPA

This year, both Salve's athletic program and department are becoming something to be proud of, and as a result, there are more men and women than ever before participating in their offerings.

With a great number of new candidates for both the men's and women's varsity basketball teams, along with experienced veterans, both teams can be expected to do well during their 1978-1979 seasons. Scheduled games are:

WOMEN'S
November 20	Bristol Community College	6:00 p.m.
December 4	Cape Cod Community College	6:00 p.m.
December 10	Annhurst College	1:00 p.m.
MEN'S
November 17	at Hellenic College Tournament	7:00 p.m.
November 18	at Hellenic College Tournament	1:00 p.m.
November 20	Bristol Community College	8:00 p.m.
November 28	at Connecticut College	7:30 p.m.
December 4	Cape Cod Community College	8:00 p.m.
December 8	at Naval Academy Prep School	7:30 p.m.
December 10	Annhurst College	3:00 p.m.

Turning to soccer, the men's soccer team completed its first "real" season with an impressive 2-4 record. If they continue to improve at this rate, they should have a perfect record in two years or so! Keep up the good work guys!

In addition to improved reputations and participation, the athletic program has obtained a bit of professionalism by hiring a full time trainer. He is licensed to provide first aid and medical treatment to all team members. So no need to worry about injuries any more!

Within the athletic department, a new course is being added next semester. Besides the regular tennis, sailing, dance, gymnastic, jogging, and golf classes, squash will be included. Enrollment will be limited, so make up your mind quickly!

Intramural sports are also building this year. If you are interested in participating in either men's or women's intramural basketball, names are being accepted at the athletic office in Mercy Hall for the months of November and December. Playing will begin after Christmas Vacation.

As Salve's athletics develop, so does the reputation of the entire school. So everyone, participate in your own way, whether it be actual playing or supporting your favorite sport. You'll grow with the sport too.

And you joggers, keep jogging!

Senate Members Elected

by KATHY POMPA

This year Salve has adopted a totally new form of student government in hopes to better facilitate communication between students and administration.

Taking the place of the traditional Student Congress are two student senates:

The first, dealing with the social and cultural life of the students, is called the Student Life Senate. Members include the presidents and vice-presidents of the four classes, a representative from the Resident Association, four members at large, and two commuter representatives.

This year's class representatives are: Sue Crudup and Cindy Talbot — Senior class, Dina Gonzales and Sally Ingraham — Junior class, Sue Bianchi and Kathy Clark — Sophomore class, and Diane Griffin and Robin Schulz — Freshman class. Recently, Denise Rao, Gigi Dasovich, Cheryl Porter and Kathy Pompa were elected as members at large along with Ruth Lima and Suzanne Leonardo who were elected as commuter representatives.

THE BOATHOUSE COMES OF AGE

by MARCIN G. REMBISZ

As this school year progresses, we are constantly being reminded of the fact that The Newport College — Salve Regina is in a state of growth and development. We witness this growth through many examples on our Newport campus. We have a new student lounge in the O'Hare academic center, a new parking lot for handicapped students and an increased resident population. Recognizing the integral importance of the social and recreational dimension of life in the total educational process, the College has set aside a place for "promoting social fellowship and companionship among members of the Salve Regina College community."

Our campus pub, The Boathouse, has been evolving for the past few years as a student-run center where students, faculty, and friends can meet, relax and enjoy fellowship in a leisurely atmosphere. Originally the potting shed of the Twombly-Burden Estate, the Boathouse is located on the corner of Leroy and Ochre Point Avenues.

The Boathouse has gone through several changes in recent years. In 1976 a corporation was formed to ensure the responsible and orderly use of the facility. That fall semester, the facility was closed and extensive structural work was done on the building. It was at that time that the present bar (recently named the Cunningham Bar) was installed.

derly use of the facility. That fall semester, the facility was closed and extensive structural work was done on the building. It was at that time that the present bar (recently named the Cunningham Bar) was installed.

This past August the Boathouse became "Busched." Anyone entering the Boathouse could notice the new interior decorations including Busch cups, Busch tee shirts, and, of course, Busch beer!

Marcin G. Rembisz, a junior pursuing a degree in the fields of management and sociology, has recently been appointed President of the Boathouse. When asked to explain this year's success of the Boathouse, Marcin said, "The success of the Boathouse is due to the renewed sense of community that is present here at the Newport College. The changes within the Boathouse, such as redecorating, and new products are all a result of a very dedicated group of people who I am proud to call my staff. It is their unending contribution of the energy that has made the Boathouse what it is today."

Commuters' Corner

by RUTH LIMA

Have you heard about the new Student Life Senate and its Committees? Besides class representatives, and four members at large, there are two commuter representatives, namely Sue Leonardo and myself. At three meetings held so far, we sought suggestions for what commuters would like to see on campus. Meetings are held regularly. If you have any suggestions, either leave a note on the bulletin board or get in touch with either Sue Leonardo, Box 463, or Ruth Lima, Box 461.

Cars may be parked in the following areas: Miley Hall parking lot, Leroy Ave. beyond Ochre Point Ave. (on the Wakehurst side of the street only); Ochre Point Ave. between Leroy and Shepard Avenues (no angle parking), and on Webster Street, next to Ochre Court.

Commuters, get involved and join one of these organizations. They're there for you to become involved with too! The Nautilus (newspaper), French Club, Newport College Singers, Psychology Club, Readers' Theater, Regina Maris (yearbook), and Spanish Club are just a few.

If you have any questions about who to contact to join these organizations, see me.

On November 17, Men's Varsity Basketball plays at Hellenic College. There will be a tournament starting at 7:00 p.m.

November 18 at Hellenic College, 1:00 p.m.; November 20 at Bristol Community College, 8:00 p.m.; November 28 at Connecticut College, 7:30 p.m.

Women's Varsity will be playing at Bristol Community College on November 20th, at 6:00 p.m.

"Full Moon" Wins Acclaim

by ALASTAIR BROWNE

"Good evening. We're FULL MOON, and we're going to play a few tunes." Moving right into "Song for a Pheasant," the two guitarists, Salvatore Ribera and William Lewis-Moon, gave their first performance at the Boathouse, on September 21st. Sal, playing lead guitar, and Bill, playing rhythm, are both native Newporters. To know people and places is what their music is all about.

Covering all aspects of life, in both their music and lyrics, their songs apply to anybody and everyone, everywhere.

Aside from the two guitars, Bill throws in a little harmonica, and Sal, at times, plays mandolin. In the past, Bill and Sal have played at family reunions, parties, aboard the HMS Rose, and finally at the Boathouse.

FULL MOON puts in a lot of effort into their music. So watch for their next local appearance. You'll be glad you did.
